

Attachment 1: Supervision Agreement between the Doctoral Candidate, the Supervisor and the Faculty of Social Sciences at the University of Duisburg-Essen

Preamble

The Faculty of Social Sciences at the University of Duisburg-Essen sees the relationship between supervisor and doctoral candidate as a partnership in which both parties conscientiously assume their respective responsibilities in order to ensure the successful completion of the academic work. This Supervision Agreement stipulates what the Faculty of Social Sciences expects from its doctoral candidates and which responsibilities arise as a result.

The objective of this Supervision Agreement is to ensure professional interaction among parties and establish rules to prevent and resolve conflict. Together with the structured design of the doctoral studies programme, this Agreement is intended to allow doctoral studies to be successfully completed in a time period that is appropriate for the relevant discipline.

Rights of the Doctoral Candidate

The Doctoral Candidate is to be provided continuous academic supervision. The supervision of the doctoral dissertation is the non-delegable responsibility of the Supervisor. The Doctoral Candidate can expect to be given academic, personal and material assistance throughout their doctoral project and, if applicable, support in acquiring financial resources.

The Faculty of Social Sciences is to provide the Doctoral Candidate appropriate access to the necessary working materials via the relevant responsible institute and, if applicable, is to support the Doctoral Candidate in gaining access to sources or aids from other locations.

At the start of their doctoral studies, the Doctoral Candidate is to agree the topic of their project with the Supervisor. At the same time, time scales and the expectations of the Supervisor and the Doctoral Candidate are to be defined and documented. With support from the Supervisor, the Doctoral Candidate is to prepare a proposal and submit it with the required documents to the Doctoral Degree Board of the Faculty of Social Sciences. Provided the requirements are fulfilled, the Doctoral Candidate will receive a response confirming their addition to the Faculty's list of doctoral students. This enables the Doctoral Candidate to enrol as a doctoral student at the University of Duisburg-Essen.

The Doctoral Candidate is entitled to regular progress meetings that should take place at least every six months and of which a written record should be kept. These meetings are to provide the Doctoral Candidate and the Supervisor with information regarding the progress to date of the doctoral project, the prospect of successful completion and the next steps. If the topic of the doctoral project needs to be changed, this is to be agreed with the Supervisor and communicated to the Doctoral Degree Board by the Doctoral Candidate, including confirmation from the Supervisor. A written record of the relevant meeting is to be kept.

During their doctoral studies, the Doctoral Candidate can expect the Supervisor to be available for academic discussions on the research work to a reasonable extent. The Doctoral Candidate can also expect the Supervisor to help them gain access to their discipline's academic community.

The Doctoral Candidate can expect the Supervisor to support the presentation of their academic findings at (inter)national conferences and in German or English-language publications, if applicable.

Moreover, the Doctoral Candidate can expect the Faculty of Social Sciences to support them in developing the necessary skills for independent academic work. The University of Duisburg-Essen (Graduate Center Plus) and the Faculty of Social Sciences (DokNet) organise suitable teaching and further education opportunities for this purpose. The Supervisor is to support the Doctoral Candidate in shaping their future career path.

Moreover, the Doctoral Candidate can expect the Supervisor to provide advice and, if applicable, a reference or letter of recommendation if the Doctoral Candidate wishes to apply for a grant or similar. The Supervisor is also to support the Doctoral Candidate by making them aware of opportunities for financing and funding through grants, projects, subsidies, research prizes and the like.

If, during the doctoral degree proceedings, the Doctoral Candidate perceives difficulties or encounters problems with their supervision, it is in the interest of all parties involved that this be resolved as quickly as possible. Such complications should be settled informally wherever possible. If these problems prove to be impossible to solve, the Doctoral Candidate can involve the Faculty's ombudspersons at any time. As individuals who are not involved in the issue, both of the Faculty of Social Sciences' ombudspersons are available to help resolve conflicts between doctoral candidates and supervisors and remove any potential hindrances to the progress of the academic work. Conflicts that are unable to be resolved will be handled by the Doctoral Degree Board. The Doctoral Candidate has the right to be kept continuously informed about the handling of their complaint. If the conflict cannot be resolved, there should be a change of supervision. In this case, the Doctoral Degree Board will assist the Doctoral Candidate in searching for a new supervisor.

The Doctoral Candidate can expect all those involved in the doctoral degree proceedings to make every effort to ensure the assessment of the dissertation and the defence process are completed quickly.

The Doctoral Candidate can expect the Faculty to ensure that, in the case that the Supervisor can no longer fulfil their obligations due to unavoidable reasons (e.g. illness, death), the Doctoral Candidate's doctoral degree project will continue to be supervised or the Doctoral Candidate will be supported in their search for a new supervisor.

Rights of the Faculty of Social Sciences and the Supervisor

The Faculty of Social Science and the Supervisor can expect the Doctoral Candidate to feel bound to complete their research project. It is therefore expected that a Doctoral Candidate demonstrates the necessary commitment and dedicates the agreed amount of work to their research project and strives to keep to the jointly agreed time plan for this.

The Supervisor can expect to be kept informed by the Doctoral Candidate regarding the progress of the doctoral dissertation. Any changes to the doctoral project, in particular a change in format between a monograph and a cumulative dissertation, are to be agreed with the Supervisor and communicated to the Doctoral Degree Board. The Supervisor can expect that any difficulties or problems that arise be brought to their attention without undue delay and, in the case of changes to planning regarding content or timing, that updated milestone and time plans be presented at the progress meetings that take place at least once every six months and that may also take place in a digital format.

The Supervisor can expect the Doctoral Candidate to take an active part in presenting academic findings at (inter)national conferences and in German and/or English-language publications.

The Supervisor can expect the Doctoral Candidate to comply with the guidelines for good research practice established by the German Research Foundation (DFG). In particular, the Doctoral Candidate must ensure that the established data protection and documentation rules are complied with.
