

First of all I have to say that the trip to Liverpool was a great experience for me. At the beginning I did not know any person. But it was very easy to get into contact with the other group members. It was a really homogeneous group and I enjoyed meeting them. We always had a lot of fun together. English people have the reputation of being unfriendly and peculiar, but now I can say that people from Liverpool are very friendly and helpful, also a little bit peculiar, but in a special and positive way.

I particularly enjoyed the activities. The Beatles tour was very interesting. I still have a catchy tune of the song "Strawberry Fields". And the trip with the ferry on the Mersey was really lovely.

"Ferry across the Mersey..." 🎵 The walk to New Brighton was very beautiful, too.

Also the Walker Art Gallery and the Town Hall were definitely very interesting. The tour around Speke Hall was also very great. It is a special place because it is one of the finest Tudor mansions in the country and therefore very interesting. All things considered it was a really great trip to Liverpool. Thank you for being a terrific "Exkursionsleiter". I had a lot of fun and a wonderful time in Liverpool! ☺

Ta and ta-ra ☺
