Six-Month Peer Group Coaching for International Doctoral Researchers at the UDE

Doing a doctorate can be fulfilling - and quite lonesome and frustrating at the same time. Working together with a group can bring in new perspectives, insights and options for action as well as clarity and increased motivation for goal achievement.

The moderated peer group coaching for international doctoral researchers at the UDE therefore supports you on the path to your doctorate and in your further career planning through (self-)reflection, feedback and interdisciplinary skills development.

WS 2025/26

For doctoral researchers who want to work together with a fixed group to...

- reflect on their own professional role
- focus on creativity, enjoyment of work and energy
- gain clarity about their own resources
- develop individual strategies and solutions for dealing with challenges
- experience support and mutual motivation to achieve goals
- exchange & network with peers
- discover feedback and appreciation as a resource

All international doctoral researchers of the UDE can apply.
