

ANTALYA INTERNATIONAL SCIENCE FORUM | ANISF

CLIMATE CHANGE, ENVIRONMENTAL CRISIS AND MIGRATION

Uluslararası Antalya Bilim Forumu – Antalya International Science Forum /ANISF -2023

CALL FOR PAPERS

We cordially invite you to participate in the International Antalya Science Forum (ANISF-2023), taking place in Antalya from 29 November to 1 December 2023.

ANISF-2023 is a prestigious international and interdisciplinary event. Its primary objective is to establish a collaborative platform that brings together individuals from various countries and sectors to propose innovative, sustainable, and equitable solutions to local and global challenges. Furthermore, ANISF-2023 aims to foster the generation and dissemination of knowledge. The central themes of the forum revolve around "Climate Change, Environmental Crisis, and Migration." It offers researchers, experts, and practitioners a unique opportunity to engage in discussions on contemporary issues and potential solutions within an international and interdisciplinary context.

ANISF-2023 will address the wide-ranging problems caused by climate change, including migration patterns, environmental disasters, and degradation. Additionally, it will highlight successful practices and solution models implemented worldwide. This international and interdisciplinary gathering also facilitates the exchange of new ideas, expertise, and experiences, as well as the establishment of business or research relationships, paving the way for future collaborations.

The official languages of ANISF-2023 are Turkish and English, with full-text submissions required to be in English.

All accepted papers will be published in the abstract booklet. Upon request, the full texts of the papers can be published in internationally recognized journals or as book chapters in an internationally published book (e.g., Peter Lang Verlag, Springer Verlag) with one or more editors. The publication process will be completed in the first quarter of 2024, following a rigorous refereeing process.

For more detailed information, please visit our website: <https://anisf.com/>

We extend our warm invitation to you to contribute to the Science Forum ANISF-2023 and join us in supporting this global endeavor to safeguard our planet and its inhabitants for future generations.

ANISF 2023 Organization Committee