1. Rules for the submission of term papers and other written examination papers

The examination boards of study programmes of the Faculty of Social Sciences extend the deadline for the submission of all written examinations (except for Bachelor/Master theses) of the winter semester 2019/20 with an original deadline between 18\textsuperscript{th}-31\textsuperscript{st} March 2020, to the 1\textsuperscript{st} Mai 2020, 23:59 hrs – Exception: For the sociological study programmes, the original deadline is extended by 44 days. This extension results from the limited access to library resources and the many restrictions due to the current corona crisis. Students do not have to make a formal request. The deadline will be changed for all students of the study programmes of the Faculty of Social Sciences. Please consider, that of course it is possible to submit your term papers earlier.

Please submit your paper electronically to the respective lecturers. If the lecturers do not specify otherwise, the submission will be made by e-mail. The receipt of the paper will be confirmed by the lecturer. In addition, please send an originally signed statutory declaration on the independent composition of the paper by post to the lecturer.

All other rules of the respective examination regulations remain valid.

2. Rules for the submission of the Bachelor or Master thesis

The examination boards of study programmes of the Faculty of Social Sciences have decided that the time to write a Bachelor or Master thesis is stopped from 18\textsuperscript{th} March till 1\textsuperscript{st} Mai 2020. The period will be restarted on 2\textsuperscript{nd} Mai 2020.

For each student the missing number of days during the period from 18\textsuperscript{th} March (closing day of the university library) and 1\textsuperscript{st} Mai (presumed end of the interference) will be calculated individually and added to the restarted period after 2\textsuperscript{nd} Mai 2020.

Please consider, that of course it is possible to submit your thesis earlier.

Please submit your thesis electronically, in pdf-format from your student e-mail address, stating your name, your study programme, and your matriculation number. Please send it to the responsible staff for your study programme at the Examinations Office, who will confirm the receipt of your thesis. Please send an e-mail-copy to both of your supervisors to inform them about the submission of your thesis in time. In addition, please send an originally signed statutory declaration on the independent composition of the paper by post to the Examination Office.

It is still possible to subscribe for a Bachelor or Master thesis. The aforementioned rule is taken into account accordingly. That means, the first day to write the thesis will start on 2\textsuperscript{nd} May 2020.

All other rules of the respective examination regulations remain valid.
