TEACHING

Undergraduate

Transnationale Literatur: Die armenische Diaspora in der Weltliteratur (Universität Duisburg-Essen, Turkistik, SoSe 2015). Formen der Erinnerung an den Armenischen Völkermord in den literarischen Werken von Fethiye Çetin, Doğan Akhanlı, Zafer Şenocak, Karın Karakaşlı und Elif Şafak.

Theorien und Modelle der Literaturwissenschaft (Universität Duisburg-Essen, Turkistik, SoSe 2014, WS 2014/15). Studierende haben die Möglichkeit, eine Bandbreite von Herangehensweisen an Literatur kennenzulernen, um komplexe kulturelle und historische Zusammenhänge von literarischen Bewegungen in der türkischsprachigen Literatur zu verstehen. Das Paradigma “Ost-West” in der Literatur- und Kulturgeschichte der republikanischen Türkei steht im Zentrum dieses Seminars.

Transnationale Literatur (Universität Duisburg-Essen, Turkistik, SoSe 2014, WS 2014/15). Dieses Seminar wendet sich dem transnationalen Kontext des literarischen Werks Emine Sevgi Özdamars zu. Das vorrangige Interesse in diesem Seminar gilt der Verknüpfung von Literatur, Sprache und Differenz.

Literaturkritik / Literaturgeschichte (Universität Duisburg-Essen, Turkistik, WS 2014/15). In dieser Lehrveranstaltung werden grundlegende Epochen der türkischen Literaturgeschichte und Begriffe der Literaturkritik behandelt. Im Zentrum stehen Realitätskonzepte sowie die literarischen Strömungen des Realismus und magischen Realismus.

Postkoloniale Literatur (Modul: Poetik, Rhetorik, Literaturtheorie; Freie Universität Berlin SoSe 2013). Der Schwerpunkt dieser Lehrveranstaltung liegt auf literarischen Texten, die die europäische Kolonialgeschichte aufarbeiten. Wir lesen und diskutieren postkoloniale Literatur aus aller Welt: Gabriel Garcia Marquez, David Malouf, Uwe Timm, Naguib Mahfouz, Nadine Gordimer und Salman Rushdie. Diese Lehrveranstaltung konzentriert sich auf die Verbindung zwischen politischen Umbrüchen und literarischen Bewegungen.

Postwar German Ethnicities (University of Michigan). Course on contemporary literature and film in which various forms of “Germanness” are explored; texts and films by Akin, Ayim, Dikmen, Honigmann, Farsaie, Lander, Özdamar, Tawada, Şenocak, Spitta, Stojka, Zaimoğlu.

Reading the World: The Twentieth Century (University of Michigan). Course on the concept of the world with a focus on the figure of the reader in world literature. Marcel Proust, Virginia Woolf, James Joyce, Franz Kafka, Albert Camus, Jorge Luis Borges, Naguib Mahfouz, Latife Tekin, Salman Rushdie, Bernhard Schlink, Azar Nafisi.

Europe's Islam: From Dante to Rushdie (University of Michigan). This course offers students new pathways of thinking about the representation of Islam in Western European literature. The syllabus incorporates texts that capture cross-cultural exchange processes between Judeo-Christian and Muslim worlds. Readings include literature by Dante, Shakespeare, Wortley Montagu, Goethe, Forster, Rushdie, and Hirsi Ali; secondary readings by Lewis, Said, Ramadan, Mandel, Asad, and Buruma.

Modernism, Magical Realism, Postmodernism (University of Michigan). Course on literary movements of the twentieth century; texts by Borges, Calvino, Jameson, Kafka, Lyotard, Mann, Márquez, Morrison, Pamuk, Proust, Stein, Tekin, Woolf.

Taboos in nineteenth- and twentieth-century German literature (University of Michigan). Course on taboos that disrupt or reinforce the social, political and moral order; texts by Hoffman, Fischer, Freud, Grimm, Kafka, Wedekind, and Wolf.

Honors Seminar (University of Michigan). The Honors seminar discusses the interdisciplinary field of German Studies and prepares students for their own research projects in this field.

The Orientalist Gaze (Yeditepe Üniversitesi). Course on Orientalism in British and US-American literature and film; texts by Byatt, Gün, Lewis, Said, Woolf, Wortley Montagu.

Short Fiction: Multicultural Readings (Yeditepe Üniversitesi). Course on multiculturalism in British and American literature; texts by Anzaldúa, Cisneros, Lorde, Mogwe, Rushdie.

Literature and Immigration (Yeditepe Üniversitesi). Course on the cultural production of migrants; texts by Gün, Kureishi, Hiçyılmaz, Hoffman, Özdamar.

Comparative Literature III (Yeditepe Üniversitesi). Great books course; texts by Borges, Calvino, Freud, Kafka, Mann, Proust.

Comparative Literature I (Yeditepe Üniversitesi). Great books course from Homer to Virgil

Turkish language, conversation and grammar (Deutsche Stiftung für internationale Entwicklung). Introductory and intermediate level courses; authored Turkish language textbook, audiotapes, and videotape.

German language, conversation and grammar (Volkshochschule Köln). Introductory and intermediate level courses.

Master

Ringvorlesung Kritische Türkeistudien (Universität Duisburg-Essen, Turkistik, SoSe 2017). Interdisziplinäre Ringvorlesung mit Wissenschaftler*innen aus der Türkei, <https://www.youtube.com/channel/UC4vTnU51tN3O3SH49ImqMzg>

Begleitveranstaltung Masterarbeit (SoSe 2016–SoSe 2017)

Literatur- und Kunstkritik (Universität Duisburg-Essen, Turkistik, SoSe 2015–SoSe 2017). Die Verschränkung von Kunst und Literatur in Orhan Pamuks Adım Kırmızı.

Vergleichende Literaturwissenschaft (Universität Duisburg-Essen, Turkistik, WS15/16–WS 2016/7). Kafka in der türkischsprachigen Prosa.

Vergleichende Literaturwissenschaft (Universität Duisburg-Essen, Turkistik, SoSe 2015). Magischer Realismus in der türkischsprachigen Prosa.

Vergleichende Literaturwissenschaft (Universität Duisburg-Essen, Turkistik, WS 2014/15). Die Lehrveranstaltung befasst sich mit Orhan Pamuks “İstanbul. Hatıralar ve Şehir” (2003) und stellt die türkischsprachige Literatur in den Kontext von Weltliteratur. Sie reflektiert zum einen über die Rolle westeuropäischer Literatur im Zuge der Europäisierungsbewegungen und zum anderen über die zunehmende Rezeption türkischsprachiger Literatur über die

Grenzen der Türkei hinaus. Studierende erlernen den kritischen Umgang mit dem Begriff "nationale Literatur", erkennen die Problematik national orientierter Philologien und werden mit grundlegenden Ansätzen der vergleichenden Literaturwissenschaft bekannt gemacht. Ziel ist, über die Wertungskriterien ästhetischer Leistungen im trans- und internationalen Zusammenhang kritisch reflektieren zu können.

Orhan Pamuk: Istanbul. Erinnerungen an eine Stadt (Modul: Exemplarische Lektüren, Freie Universität Berlin SoSe 2013). In Istanbul legt Orhan Pamuk die verschiedenen Erinnerungsschichten und Repräsentationsformen Istanbuls in der Literatur und Kunst des neunzehnten und zwanzigsten Jahrhunderts frei. Der Autor erstellt einen Zusammenhang zwischen seinen eigenen Kindheitserinnerungen und den vielfältigen Ansichten der Stadt in der Literatur und Kunst westeuropäischer Reisender. Dieser Lektürekurs nähert sich Pamuks Werk durch die Lektüre seiner Vorbilder: Gautier, Nerval, Tanpınar und Joyce.

Postcolonial / Empire Studies (Modul: Allgemeine Literaturtheorie, Freie Universität Berlin SoSe 2013) Postcolonial Studies has emerged as a productive theoretical response to the complex relationship between colonial discourse and the social, political and cultural formation of colonial and formerly colonial societies. Taking Edward Said's Orientalism as a point of departure, the seminar examines the genesis of postcolonial studies. This interdisciplinary seminar also deals with various forms of imperial practice in British, German, and Ottoman imperial contexts.

Europe's Islam: From Dante to Rushdie (Modul: Vergleichende Literaturgeschichte, Freie Universität Berlin SoSe 2013). This course offers students new pathways of thinking about the representation of Islam in Western European literature. The syllabus incorporates texts that capture cross-cultural exchange processes between Judeo-Christian and Muslim worlds. Readings include literature by Dante, Shakespeare, Wortley Montagu, Goethe, Rushdie, Satrapi and Hirsi Ali; secondary readings by Lewis, Said, Ramadan, Mandel, Asad, and Buruma. Students also meet with writers Zafer Şenocak and Esther Dischereit to discuss their work.

Graduate (PhD)

Forschungskolloquium (Universität Duisburg-Essen, Turkistik), SoSe 2014–

Kafka: Introduction to German Studies (University of Michigan): Reviewing seminal debates on Franz Kafka over the course of a century, this seminar introduces students to the basic concepts, forms of knowledge and analytical skills that the contributors to the debates mobilize in arguing their various positions. We ask what approach, for example, underpins Benjamin's view of Kafka; how does Camus employ Kafka's oeuvre for existentialism; to what end do Deleuze and Guattari read Kafka; or how does the Arab reception of Kafka change in the aftermath of the six-day war? This seminar is related to a broader discussion in the field about the transnationalization of German Studies. It investigates the appropriation of Kafka by minority writers in Germany and reviews Kafka's legacy in the twenty-first century. Kafka readings are discussed along literary texts by Orhan Pamuk, Herta Müller, Albert Camus, Zafer Şenocak, Emine Sevgi Özdamar, and Yoko Tawada. Critical readings by Benjamin, Adorno, Deleuze and Guattari, Suchoff, Spector, Liska, Friedlander, Garloff, Botros, Butler, and Hanssen.

Secular Criticism (University of Michigan): Modernization is often simply equated with secularization and commonly understood as one of the major achievements of the European Enlightenment. Against the common view, students trace the roots of secular thought back to Andalusian Spain, the Italian Renaissance, and the Ottoman Empire. Rather than understanding secularism in opposition: to religion, students inquire how secular thought has been generated in Jewish, Christian, and Muslim communities. The seminar draws on scholarship in comparative literature, literary history, postcolonial studies, and the philosophy of history. Readings include Anidjar, Asad, Auerbach, Butler, Chatterjee, Dering, Göle, Habermas, Mahmood, Roy, Schmitt, Taylor, and VanAntwerpen.

Erich Auerbach: Humanist in Turkish Exile (University of Michigan) Graduate seminar on the epistemological implications of exile, transnational scholarship, and humanism; literature by Homer, Virgil, Dante, Proust, Woolf, Benjamin, Levi, and Pamuk; theoretical readings by Apter, Damrosch, Ginzburg, Greenblatt, Kadir, Levin, Mufti, and Said.

From World Literature to Transnational Literatures (University of Michigan) Graduate seminar on the disciplinary history of Comparative Literature; theoretical readings by Herder, Goethe, Schlegel, Benjamin, Auerbach, Spitzer, Said, Levin, Wellek, Spivak, Pratt, Kadir, Apter, Mufti, Damrosch, Higonnet, Appadurai, and Dering.

Postcolonial / Empire Studies (University of Michigan). Graduate seminar on postcolonial concepts of hybridity, mimicry, transculturation, performativity, alterity, race, and ethnicity; texts by Bhabha, Denning, Dirlik, Greenblatt, Hall, Hell, Lewis, McClintock, Mohanty, Pratt, Said, Spivak, Steinmetz, Suleri, Thomas, Todorov, Todorova, Young, Zantop.

Minority Studies (University of Michigan). Graduate seminar on the history, cultural production, and political formation of ethnic and religious minorities in Europe; texts by Adelson, Anderson, Baumann, Benjamin, Bhabha, Deleuze and Guattari, Deringil, Göçek, Fanon, Hall, Kristeva, Renan, and Zantop. Literature by Balakian, Kafka, Kureishi, Sebbar, Sebald, Tekin, Zarian.

Arrivals: First Encounters in the Literature, Music and Art of Travel and Migration (International Women's University ifu). Team-taught graduate workshop on nation, citizenship, authenticity of culture, "home," and performativity of identity in cross-cultural experiences of the traveler, migrant, asylum seeker, and indigene; texts by Cahan, Denning, Doctorow, Hoffman, Forster, Rushdie, Twain, Roth.
